Of the Quorum of the Twelve Apostles

...From the window above, I watched as the policeman seemed to take satisfaction in his power to block the flow of traffic and turn people away. In fact, he seemed to develop a spring in his step, as if he might start doing a little jig, as each car approached the barrier...

...on the road of mortal life,
our Father's beautiful plan,
even His “fabulous” plan, is designed to bring you home, not to keep you out.

No one has built a roadblock and stationed someone there to turn you around and send you away.

In fact, it is the exact opposite. God is in relentless pursuit of you. He “wants all of His children to choose to return to Him,” and He employs every possible measure to bring you back.

The plan of ...

the great plan of happiness, - Alma 42:8, 16

the plan of redemption, - Alma 42:13

the plan of mercy, - Alma 42:15

the plan of salvation, - Moses 6:62

The intent of the Father's great plan of happiness is your happiness, right here, right now, and in the eternities.

It is not to prevent your happiness and cause you instead worry and fear.

The intent of the Father's plan of redemption is in fact your redemption, your being rescued through the sufferings and death of Jesus Christ, freed from the captivity of sin and death.

It is not to leave you as you are.

The intent of the Father's plan of mercy is to extend mercy as you turn back to Him and honour your covenant of fidelity to Him.

It is not to deny mercy and inflict pain and sorrow.

The intent of the Father's plan of salvation is in fact your salvation in the celestial kingdom of glory as you receive "the testimony of Jesus" and offer your whole soul to Him.

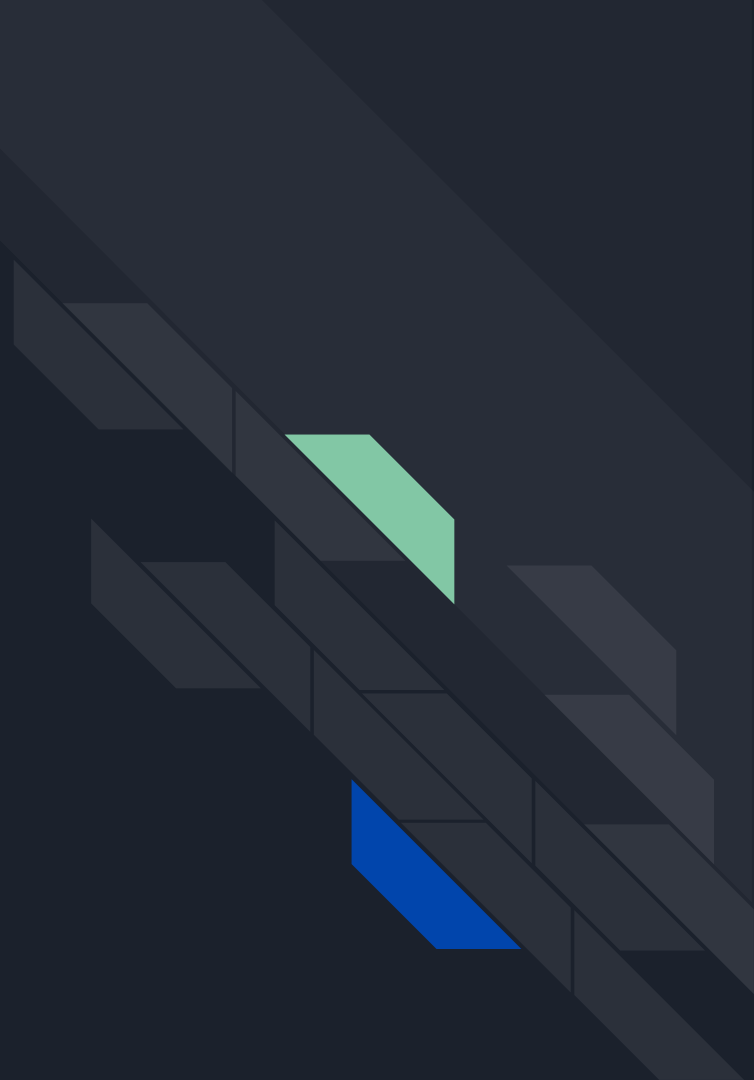

It is not to keep you out.

Does this mean anything goes with regard to how we live our lives?

That the way we choose to use our agency doesn't matter?

That we can take or leave
God's commandments?

Alma 39

I think that there's wisdom here in what Alma is teaching his son

"let me teach you some skill sets because we're all tempted in our lives"

"let me teach you how to avoid what is a potential pitfall for us every hour of every single day" and he says "none of us are immune to this"

It's the the conversation you kind of dread having as a parent that your teenager you're going to tell them:

-[father] no I don't want you to go somewhere on some occasion

- [son] don't you trust me...

- [father] ...don't you trust me

- [father] no I don't trust you, I don't even trust myself in situations like that

- [father] greater men than you and I have fallen in a situation like that, so let's be wise in the way that you know be humble

Alma 39:1-9

- he's going to bring up some an awkward situation,
- but then he's like I know this is really awkward, but I only bring it up just briefly for your good
- this is some advice I would give you for next time
 - that would have been helpful a year ago dad - you know... that kind of advice
- there's something powerful about the fact that he's giving him advice after the mistake
- it's a way of saying "oh, you made a mistake, that's okay we're going to recover from this"
- how do we prevent it for next time
- there's still time
- so let's just prevent this from happening again
- what can we learn from this
- look you still have chances
- this isn't it
- it's not game over

I would that ye should...

v2 -

...give much heed

...be humble

v3 -

...don't forget people

...stay faithful to promises

v4 -

...take care of the trust

v9 -

...remember mercy

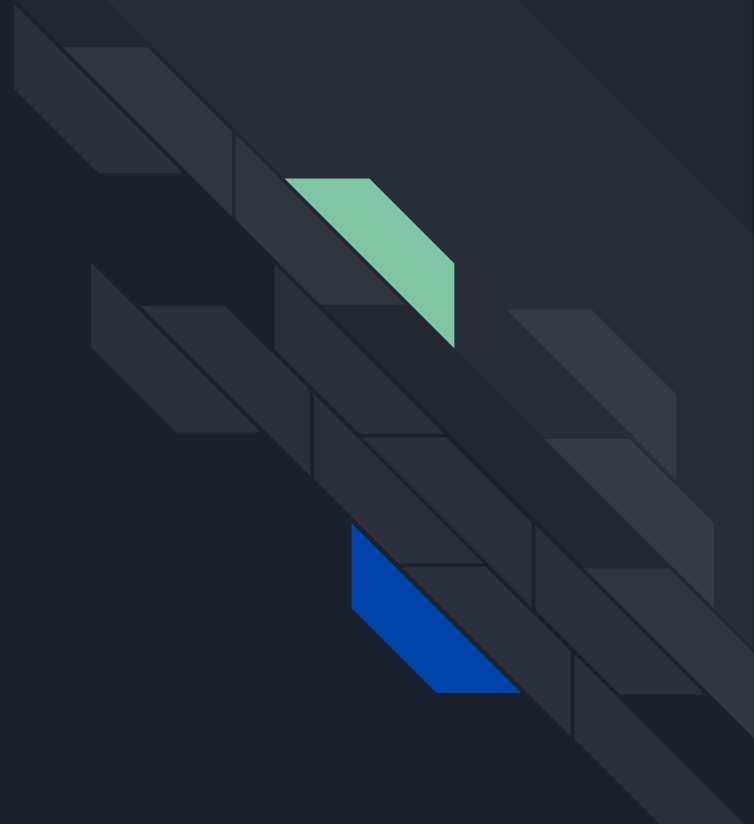

See who you can become
