- Nahum 1:7

- God can be our strength in times of trouble; he's a fortress, a strong hold, that can help us to endure to the end. If we continue to stand in holy places, we won't be moved.

- Nahum 1:13

- The yokes that the world puts on us will one day be broken off.
- We won't have to carry the yoke of persecution, ridicule, or harassment or evil any more.
- The burdens of this life will be lifted from our shoulders and we'll raise our heads high in glory and rest.

- Nahum 1:15

- Zephaniah 3:9 - hear no evil
 - We live in a world of all kinds of corrupt communication. Swearing, lying, mockery, blasphemy, criticism, verbal abuse, negativity, blame... It's nice to know that one day our language will be pure and we won't have to subject our ears or souls anymore to that kind of thing.
- Zephaniah 3:13
- Zephaniah 3:14
 - The singing and rejoicing that occur at the second coming of Christ comes from both directions - it's not just the people of the earth that are rejoicing and happy, but it comes from above as well - God and Christ and heaven all join in the singing. At some future date, it's nice to know that there will be this divine duet performed - and hopefully we get to be a part of that chorus.
- Zephaniah 3:15 - see no evil
 - I can't wait for the day when that promise is fulfilled, because I'm tired of the evil that surrounds us.
- Zephaniah 3:17
- Zephaniah 3:19

Habakkuk's initial question -

- How can the Lord allow so much negativity, tyranny, and iniquity on this earth.
- The promise of Nahum, Habakkuk and Zephaniah is that all these things will end someday.
 - The destiny of this earth is a joyful one.
 - Mortality has a happy ending.
 - Justice will triumph.
 - Evil will cease.
 - The righteous will rejoice.
 - Pain and opposition are temporary.
- My hope and prayer is that we will live by faith in that glorious outcome and rehearse for that divine duet that we'll one day sing.
